Deep Instinct

Hello,

Currently a 3rd year student at Epitech Paris, I managed to acquire skills in numerous computer science related topics. My education allowed me to work with all sort of programming languages, ranging from low level (ASM x86, C) to higher level (C#, react-native).

During the course of my studies I also had the opportunity to work with various frameworks. As a matter of fact during my last internship at "Eurodrop" I've single handedly designed, implemented and deployed an application in ASP.NET which aimed to automate some of the employees's tasks.

Most of all my education taught me how to research and apply a solution to a given problem. Since high-school I found myself passionate about the field of cybersecurity. This interest pushed me to solve a considerable amount of challenges on platforms such as Root-Me and HackTheBox. I'm curious, I learn fast and most of all I want to be challenged.
